

End of the Year PD with MISIC Tools

Micro-Credentials: Individualized Learning

Micro-Credentials are personalized, self-directed, performance-based learning experiences that focus on specific skills teachers want to learn or to hone. Teachers can work individually, in small groups, in PLC's or as a whole staff to learn through vetted, quality resources as they complete a performance task that demonstrates mastery of the skill. MISIC has developed over 80 MC's or can help create MC's that address a special district need.

Book Studies for Small and/or Large Groups

Small groups, whole staff teams, or departments can read, discuss, and learn from over 30 acclaimed books on education. MISIC has designed a book study format that offers a blended approach of individual reading and reflection, partner conversations, and face to face or Zoom sessions. This book study process opens opportunities for teachers, support staff and administrators to collaborate around topics of high-interest and high-impact.

District-Developed Professional Development

If your district is creating its own PD program, MISIC can provide Licensure Renewal Credit (LRC) for teachers and administrators. MISIC can help you plan and draft a plan for LRC.

Create Units that Align Curriculum, Instruction and Assessment

Use MISIC's one-page unit planning template to plan and delineate clear plans for delivering instruction and assessing learning. MISIC team members can help the district get ready for this work.

Dig Into the Hundreds of MISIC's Vetted Resources

The MISIC Team searches for and evaluates hundreds of resources on a wide variety of topics. These high-quality resources are reviewed to ensure that they represent the very best educational research and knowledge. Check out the MISIC website, one of our LiveBinders, or a recent set of vetted resources, such as this one on the Science of Reading.

Licensure renewal credit can be created for any of these options.
